For the collection and processing of personal interview data*

The background and objective of the interview are explained verbally.

The interview is recorded using a recording device and written up afterwards by the person conducting the interview. No scientific analysis of the interview is carried out. The text of the interview is used solely as a basis for identifying key statements.

Scientific publication is ruled out.

Personal contact data is stored separately from interview data and remains inaccessible to third parties. After completion of the project, the contact data is deleted automatically unless further use is expressly requested for related projects. The data subject can of course object to storage of the data at any time.

Participation in the interview is voluntary. At any time, it is possible to terminate an interview, refuse to do a further interview or withdraw consent to the recording and transcription of the interview, without incurring any disadvantages.
